

YOUR INDOOR AIR & RESTORATION SPECIALISTS

PROFESSIONAL CLEANING, RESTORATION AND MICROBIAL REMEDICATION

Why choose an IICRC certified company?

With issues such as water extraction, restoration, and microbial remediation (molds and mildew), you need to know you are using the best trained and, therefore, most qualified company. New technological advents in the cleaning and restoration industry have led to an increasing number of companies in the field. The variety can make it difficult for consumers to be certain the company they contract with doesn't take them to the 'cleaners'.

“Experts suggest only working with businesses certified by organizations such as the Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification.”

In light of this information, who better to provide these services than a company certified by IICRC?

That's one reason experts suggest only working with businesses certified by organizations such as the Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (IICRC). This group helps consumers choose services ranging from water extraction to carpet cleaning to mold and microbial remediation. More than 30 years old, the IICRC is a nonprofit certification body founded to set standards for the inspection, cleaning and restoration service industries. IICRC certified firms must show proof of insurance, provide ongoing education for their workers and stay active in their industry by attending seminars, workshops and conventions.

In hot and humid environments such as the greater Houston and surrounding areas, mold can become a problem. The nonprofit Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (IICRC) recommends you contact a certified professional to ensure that mold is removed correctly and occupants are protected throughout the job.

To locate an IICRC certified firm near you, go to iicrc.org.